"The Rainbow"

Dr. Thos. Clark

Soprano

When over fair nature's face dark tempests low--er And on the poor traveller fast falls the show-er Bright o'er the deep'--ning shade Ere quite the sunbeams fade

The rainbow is dis--play'd by heavns blest pow'r

'Midst darkness and horror I will not dis--pair But learn with submission my sorrows to bear For when the clouds arise And from my weeping eyes the light of comfort flies, The bow is there

O sweet is the promise of mercy so mild And strong the restraint laid on these passions wild Faith wipes a---way my tears, And I re--sign my fears. The bow of peace appears To bless his child

Meditation

Henry S. Young

Andante

When languor and dis - ease in - vade. This trembling house of clay

'Tis sweet to look beyond our cage And long to fly a - way

Savior again to thy dear name we raise &c
